Troops Of Fifth Army Pursuing Germans In Italy

Drive North Of Rome By Allied Forces Is Being Pushed By Allies

NAZI RESISTANCE APPEARS LIGHT

By LARRY NEWMAN
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

NAPLES, June 7.—Troops of the Allied Fifth Army in Italy fanned out 10 miles above Rome today after overcoming slight German resistance.

Patrols operating west of the liberated Italian capital reached a point only four miles from the Tyrrhenian sea coast.

Infantry forces streaking northwest of Rome drove to within five miles of Lake Bracciano, about 15 miles from the capital. An increasing bag of German prisoners was counted, with the total now set at more than 18,000.

Push Northward

The Eighth Army operating east of Rome met greater resistance than the Fifth Army forces, but continued to push northward through the mountains. They captured Balsorano, in the Liri river valley.

Fighter-bombers of the Mediterranean air forces kept up constant attacks against the Germans retreating north of Rome. They tore craters into escape roadways and shot up scores of Nazi vehicles.

A German ammunition dump at the strategic road junction of Terni was hit.

Night bombers attacked both Orvieto and Viterbo. Key escape points for the fleeing Nazi forces.

Radio Algiers reported that units of the Fifth Army are racing forward along highway two in the direction of Florence.

"They have reached the Tiber along its entire length from Rome to the sea and crossed it at numerous points," the French transmitter said.

Seek Contact

The Fifth Army forces under command of Lieut. Gen. Mark W. Clark moved up well beyond Rome in an effort to maintain contact with fleeing Nazis who were contacted.

Normandy Coast Invasion Appears Major Offensive

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG
(Written Especially for I. N. S.)

NEW YORK, June 7.—(INS)—The first blow of the invasion of western Europe has been struck. The beachhead is firmly established. If the Allied supreme command desires to hold it the beachhead will not be recaptured by the Germans.

The amphibious assault against the Normandy coast of France has all the earmarks of a major offensive, having as its immediate objective the establishment of a base of supply and the necessary airfields for land-based fighter planes. However, from here and at this time it is unwise to consider the present attack as in that category. It still could be diversionary.

Next Objective
The establishment of a base of operations and the securing of airfields is the next objective of the present assault, if the landing is successful.

Yanks Smashing Steadily Forward On Biak Island

By FRANK ROBERTSON
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

GEN. DOUGLAS MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, New Guinea, June 7.—Battle-proven American infantrymen, supported by four-motored bombers of the Fifth Air Force, smashed their way steadily today toward the three Japanese airfields on Biak Island, closely approaching the cliffs dominating the bases.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur, supreme commander in the Southwest Pacific, announced that several columns of his jungle fighters converged "in wide development" on the fields and already were near the dominant heights.

The forward drive on the Dutch New Guinea island was aided by the huge American warplanes which successfully bombed Japanese gun emplacements and other installations in the rear of the enemy defense lines.

Air Supremacy Prevents Germans Bringing Up Guns

NEW YORK, June 7.—(INS)—Allied air supremacy over the northern French battlefields prevented the Germans from bringing up tanks and heavy guns against focal points during daylight yesterday, a CBS correspondent reported from London today.

"It was expected they (the Nazis) would do so after dark," he added.

Washington Roundup

(International News Service)

The invasion of Europe is still the main center of attraction in Washington and the rest of the world today, but the American capital is also closely watching the Pacific for moves against Japan.

Several hours before President Roosevelt led the nation in prayer for American soldiers battling their way into France, the Tokyo radio went off the air, presumably in fear of a bombing raid. Pacific developments point toward new invasion drive, even while the European struggle is moving toward a climax.

As the military phase of the liberation of Europe proceeds, diplomats in Washington are expressing apprehension over three weak spots in the political armor of the allies which to a degree threaten the success of the military operations. These weak spots are intensified as the unsettled political situation in Poland, France and Yugoslavia.

Huge Armada Is Near Cherbourg

LONDON, June 7.—(INS)—The German-controlled Paris radio reported today that a huge Allied armada comprising some 6,000 vessels, including heavy cruisers as escort and a swarm of landing vessels of all types, is now cruising off the Cherbourg peninsula.

"The naval guns of this fleet are engaged in artillery duels with the German shore batteries," Paris said.

County Tour Arranged For Opening Of Fifth War Loan Campaign

Lawrence county will open the Fifth War Loan campaign on June 12 with a motorcade from Camp Reynolds, it was announced today by Judge W. Walter Braham, chairman of the campaign. The motorcade will consist of mechanized equipment and the Camp Reynolds military band.

The tour of the county will open at New Bedford at 10 o'clock and after that will visit New Wilmington, Volant, Ellwood City, Wampum, New Castle, Enon Valley, Bessemer and Hillsville. In the evening a dinner will be held in New Castle.

At each stop it is expected short bond speeches will be made by members of the Lawrence county war finance committee with Arthur Heitzmann, treasury department representative, heading the list.

The Camp Reynolds band is a good one and the tour of the county should be one that will pep up bond sales, if anything is needed to pep this campaign up.

Clarence M. England is the tourmaster and has the trip mapped out as to time and place. Later the time of arrival in each of the places named will be published.

Huge Air Forces Continuing To Blast Germans

Nazi Communications Behind Battlefront Heavily Pounded By Allies

CHEMICAL CENTER TARGET OF BOMBS

By JOSEPH THOMAS
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, June 7.—Incessant aerial blows were carried out today by fleets of allied airplanes in support of allied ground forces driving inland from the French coast after more than 1,000 heavy Royal Air Force bombers blasted German communications behind the battlefront during the night.

The air ministry said that the great forces of bomber command planes which went out during the night concentrated their main attack against roads and railroads behind the beachheads established by American, British and Canadian troops.

The German Rhineland chemical center of Ludwigshafen was attacked by the RAF bombers.

Planes of the bomber command also mined Nazi-controlled waters. The RAF operations were carried out without loss.

Hit Communications

The heavy British night bombers got in the last blows at the end of D-day by cascading mighty loads of bombs on the German communications.

Roads, railroad bridges and junctions were attacked at various critical points, the air ministry said. All of the attacks, each of which was made was a strong force, were designed to block and delay reinforcements which the enemy was expected to bring up by every possible means of transport.

Some of the RAF crews, the communiqué said, dropped down to altitudes of 200 feet.

Coincident With German Reports New Allied Landings Attempted

DOVER, Eng., June 7.—(INS)—Coincident with Nazi claims that Allied amphibious troops had attempted a new invasion of France across the narrow straits of Dover, German long-range guns in the Pas de Calais area unleashed a violent barrage on Dover and its vicinity today.

Approximately 40 rounds of heavy calibre Nazi shells fell into the Dover-Folkestone area while German broadcasts were reporting an Allied landing attempt across the most narrow part of the English coast.

Between Dover and Calais on the northeastern coast of France the distance is only 21 miles.

LONDON, June 7.—Lieut. Gen. Omar Nelson Bradley, commander of all American ground forces in the European invasion, is commanding the United States First Army in the present assault boring deep into northern France, official sources revealed today.

Gen. Bradley, who distinguished himself in the Tunisian campaign, directed the first preliminary phases of the invasion operations from the deck of the U. S. Battleship Augusta.

The Augusta is flagship of the American fleet units now in action in the English channel.

General Bradley came into prominence in the Allied command for his part in the Tunisian operations; a role which won for him a personal message from Gen. George C. Marshall, American chief of staff which read:

"All our confidence in you has been justified."

It was to Bradley that General Krause of the German army surrendered unconditionally.

Combining observance of the long expected, but still unlooked for D-day invasion of Western Europe with a previously planned Fellowship Dinner, over 300 members of the Second U. It was a most solemn group of church members who sat down at 6:30 o'clock in the church basement to a supper served by the three missionary societies of the church, and partook of a splendid meal. Believes German Morale Will Crack

PITTSBURGH, June 7.—(INS)—Francis B. Sayre, diplomatic advisor to the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, today believes that the Allied invasion will crack the morale of the Nazis and bring an end to the war against Germany.

The former high commissioner of the Philippines said:

"We are liable to underestimate the value of morale. The Germans have been made to believe the Allies cannot possibly pierce their defenses, and when our armies move forward into Europe and the Germans realize they have been told nothing but lies, I believe their morale will crack and bring the end of the war against Germany."

"The Western invasion is the beginning of attacks against German armies everywhere," he said.

German-Held Oil Centers In Balkans Hit

(BULLETIN)

NAPLES, June 7.—(INS)—Some 750 Allied heavy bombers, smashed five German-held oil and communications centers in the Balkans, an official headquarters communiqué revealed today, adding that 34 enemy interceptors were destroyed in the raids.

The huge four-motored bombers attacked the vital oil fields at Ploesti, in Romania, as well as the Brassy and Piestri railroad yards in the same Balkan satellite.

The iron gate of Danube at Turnu Severin again was raided by the Mediterranean air force planes, while other railway marshalling yards at the Yugoslavian capital of Belgrade simultaneously were pummeled.

During all operations, the headquarters announcement said, 34 enemy planes were destroyed. Some 15 of the Allied bombers failed to return and 17 other aircraft were listed as missing.

In their first assault from new bases within the Soviet Union, the huge four-motored U. S. craft "completely flattened" a key enemy airbase at Galati, vital communications center some 120 miles southwest of Tiraspol.

Report Allies Come To Grips With Germans

Bridgehead On French Coast Now Five Or Six Miles Deep Germans Admit

FEW DETAILS OF SITUATION GIVEN

(BULLETIN)

SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, June 7.—Every beach along the northern coast of France upon which Allied troops landed in the invasion of Europe has now been cleared of German forces, the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower made known today.

By J. C. OESTREICHER
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

The battle of Europe began on the rich black soil of French Normandy today when Allied troops constantly reinforced and covered by a massive umbrella of fighter planes, came to grips with the Germans at a bridgehead deep inside the steel and concrete walls of Adolf Hitler's fortified continent.

Thirty-six hours after the greatest offensive in history sent thousands upon thousands of American, British, Canadian and Allied troops into Europe, the Germans themselves acknowledged that a breach some 20 miles long and from five to six miles deep had been carved into the so-called west wall.

Few Details Given

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, in his eagerly awaited communiqué No. 3 from supreme headquarters of the Allied expeditionary force in England disclosed few details.

The most significant paragraph was this:

"Allied forces continued landings on the northern coast of France throughout yesterday. Satisfactory progress was made."

But supplementary information from his command post and direct communications from International News Service correspondents assigned to the invasion armies and vital offensive bases in the British Isles gave an enlightening and even more encouraging picture.

Most important was the disclosure (Continued On Page Six)

Opposition Lack Big Surprise To Men On Warship

By TOM YARBOROUGH
Representing the Combined American Press

ABOARD THE BRITISH DESTROYER COTESMORE OFF THE NORTH COAST OF FRANCE, June 6.—(Delayed)—This little ship with four hot guns is going back to England now after spending twelve incredible hours in the front ranks of first phase of the Allied invasion of France, an operation that came off ten times smoothly as anyone aboard expected.

From where we sat about a mile and a half offshore it seemed too easy and too smooth to be true. Men of this ship through several tense and expectant months had come to refer to this thing as that blood bath, and not altogether facetiously.

But it wasn't a blood bath at all. They thank God—several of them told me so—that it went as well as it did this first day-D and they know full well the hardest part is yet to come.

It is still almost incredible though that in twelve hours within easy shooting distance of Hitler's Europe this force of men and ships did not encounter a single German plane or ship.

It was like seeing a play in which some of the leading actors had failed to show up.

With strong binoculars on a swaying bridge we saw thousands of men and machines tumble safely across beaches bristling with ugly spikes driven into the sand at crazy angles and topped with mines. The beaches were smoking with a terrible plastering of bombs and naval shells.

The opposition was so weak generally, thanks to seemingly complete tactical surprise, that this ship and others were still asking for targets were available.

One enemy shell exploded within about fifty feet of us but caused no damage.

Our sector included little Normandy towns with Caen farther back from the coast area, immediately east of the Cherbourg peninsula. It looked as if the civilians had been moved out long before. The windows of many buildings were bricked up as if to fortify them.

tudes of only 2,000 feet to insure pinpoint attacks on their targets. Supreme headquarters of the allied expeditionary air force revealed that from dawn to dusk yesterday allied air forces flew 13,000 sorties. The American eighth air force flew 4,300 of these sorties and the ninth air force flew 4,800.

Crews at an advanced second tactical air force base who participated in night operations said they met practically no German air force resistance and encountered only sporadic anti-aircraft fire.

First Invasion Mission
This was the first "invasion mission" flown by the fighter group from this particular station and it succeeded in flushing enemy aircraft. The Nazis swept out of the clouds and were traced by one 9th air force squadron and trapped by a second.

Fighter Pilot Lieut. "Billy" Bryan of Cameron, Tex., became separated from his group and took on three Messerschmitts. A six-second burst from his ship exploded one of the Germans, which spun to earth, and Bryan sighted hits on the wings of a second enemy plane.

Bryan ended up with the third Nazi on his own tail. He "hit the deck"—diving to ground level—but was pursued for 10 miles before he escaped through the overcast.

This mission of fighters was led by Deputy Commander Lt. Col. George Kaiser of Somerset, Ky., whose service in the Pacific has netted him nine Japanese Zeros.

the assault, nor were there any casualties inflicted by the small amount of fighter and anti-aircraft opposition encountered. Two fighters, however, failed to return.

All fighters at the German grome, situated near the confluence of the Siret and Danube rivers, were said to have been "annihilated."

Base Flattened
"Never have I seen so many incendiaries break in all my life," said one American pilot, a veteran of 59 missions. And another U.S. officer, a colonel, described the enemy base as "completely flattened" with six Nazi interceptors destroyed.

Long-range aviation of the Russian air force carried out a night raid on the railroad junction and military targets of Iasi, in Rumania. At least 90 fires were started and military trains and stores set ablaze.

The raid on Iasi was coordinated with Red army ground action in that sector. North and northwest of the important junction, Soviet artillery, tanks and infantry repulsed more attacks by German armored forces.

any force had no comment to make on the German claims of a landing attempt in the Calais area.

Explosions of the detonating shells were heard for miles around. German batteries between Boulogne and Calais, which in a matter of moments were subjected to Allied air bombardment, appeared to be in operation, using salvos of six, four and two shells in succession.

The Nazi firing lasted for more than an hour and a half. During this period, the coast of France was occasionally visible from the English side in spells of good visibility.

Allied aircraft were in constant action over the channel. New formations were seen returning to the area of Cape Gris-Nex early in the afternoon.

Bulkeley Aids Invasion Task

By CLARK LEE
(U.S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN FRANCE, June 7.—Lieut. Comdr. John D. Bulkeley, hero of the Philippines and daring action in the South Pacific, today commands a force of hard-hitting motor torpedo boats operating off the coast of France.

Comdr. Bulkeley, the Long Island PT boat commander who transported Gen. Douglas MacArthur from the Philippines to Australia, led one group of motor torpedo craft up to the French shores to protect the initial landings on "D-Day."

This correspondent had gained Comdr. Bulkeley as a friend in Bataan while in the Philippines. Paratroops were dropped behind the target some hours before sea-borne landings on our sector were effected. Air and sea bombardments were counted upon to neutralize German artillery batteries until a foothold was gained on the beach.

Special Invasion Prayer Services
Services Held At Churches Of Community On D-Day

On D-Day about one thousand people attended the special invasion day prayer services that were held here in the First Baptist church, the Third U. P. church, Christ Lutheran church, Third Israel synagogue, and in Bessemer at the Bessemer Presbyterian church.

During the day an estimated 500 attended prayer services in the afternoon and evening or in the course of the day at the First Baptist church, Union prayer service in the evening was led by Dr. Burr R. McKnight, Dr. D. L. Ferguson, Rev. A. E. Simon, Rev. P. P. Sulmonetti, and Rev. O. W. Hurst.

Among the group that joined in prayer at an afternoon service at the First Baptist church were employees of the Strauss-Hirschberg company and the New Castle store who were given leave to attend.

In Bessemer more than 125 attended an impressive prayer service on Tuesday evening at the Presbyterian church. Special music included singing of the Lord's Prayer by Lester Nord, Mrs. Audrey Snyder was at the organ. Rev. Raymond Townell was in charge.

Churches anticipate that attendance at midweek prayer services will be much larger this evening than usual as many will be in the nature of services of prayer for the men in service taking part in the invasion of Europe.

warships were brought in aboard a British light cruiser. They were immediately herded into a compound to be questioned by intelligence officers.

These Nazis, among the first to feel the sting of the second front, struggled along the pier like half-drowned rats. It was clear from the expressions on their faces that they had had enough. In a subtle way they seemed happy to be in the safety of Allied captivity.

First Wounded Arrive
The first wounded to be disembarked at this port were soldiers brought back from the French beachhead in a minesweeper. They were carried ashore by litter bearers and taken to an emergency hospital near the pier.

All casualties except cases too serious to be moved are evacuated to inland base hospitals within 24 hours.

This port had been equipped to handle a tremendous number of casualties if necessary. There are hospital facilities for six thousand wounded in the immediate vicinity.

Immense two-ton refrigerators loaded with plasma and blood are deployed in the port area. Seventy days supplies of medical and surgical materials are stored at nearby field hospitals and tent camps had been set up for cases of minor injury and shock.

FIND WOMEN WORKERS ALMOST EVERYWHERE

BANDON, Ore.—(INS)—There's hardly any place now where you won't find women working. When the U. S. Engineers sent the harbor survey tug Kalama to take soundings in the Bandon harbor, six girls composed the technical crew. The young women knew their work thoroughly, according to the skipper.

Several letters from the war department and from her husband himself, Cpl. Jack Carlin, in Corsica, have been received by Mrs. Carlin of 833 Hazel street, advising her that the wounds he received last month while in action in the Mediterranean area were slight and that there is no cause for worry.

Cpl. Carlin, who is attached to the army air corps, had been hospitalized in North Africa from November 6 to April 10 following injuries received in action in Italy and had been out of the hospital only 33 days when he received the wounds from which he is now recovering.

He entered service 26 months ago and sailed 10 months later for overseas duty. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Carlin of North Lafayette street, Mahoningtown.

intended to be of a permanent nature. Of course, while that is being done the beachhead will be pushed out in width as desired by the supreme commander.

While the latest objectives are being accomplished—that is, securing of the base and airfield area—the Allied navies will without doubt be blocking off the entire English Channel from Brest in the south, to Dunkerque or Ostend in the north. That stretch of water must be made an allied supply lake wherein there is the minimum of war interference.

It was reported that the mine sweeping operation of the channel waters in front of the beachhead was the greatest ever known to naval history. By now the entire stretch of the channel is probably being cleared of enemy mines, an operation of even greater magnitude.

Must Protect Channel
Next, General Eisenhower must maintain the channel and the theater of land fighting an equal umbrella of airplanes 24 hours a day. The enemy air force must be held back from attack against our forces which have landed, and from channel boat traffic. There can be no doubt but what we have superiority in the air.

We must expect many more offensive blows to follow in rapid succession. The final great Russian assault may commence at any moment. There may be other amphibious assaults from the south. One of them might be bigger than even the present Italian operation.

Many more blows may be struck on the west coast of Europe. It must be expected that German counter-attacks in France will be vicious. We will probably sustain our heaviest casualties. We must be prepared for long-drawn-out fighting. But in the end the Allies will be victorious.

attempted to interfere with the American advance, they were met by fierce anti-aircraft fire which destroyed one and probably threatened others before forcing the others to flee. Another enemy plane was shot down in two other ineffective raids on U. S. positions.

Further to the east, other units of MacArthur's Sixth Army forces repulsed "several abortive enemy counter-attacks," slaying an additional 107 Jap troops in the Samaritang-Batanga sector. And in the Hollandia-Aitape region, 389 more dead Japs were accounted for in "mopping up operations."

All types of American bombers blasted Jap installations in the by-passed Weak-Hansa Bay area of New Guinea. Lesser raids by medium bombers were carried out against Rabaul, New Britain, and "targets of opportunity" in New Ireland.

stantly harassed by Allied aerial assaults which smashed their transport columns.

Principal resistance was encountered by Eighth Army forces in the mountainous regions considerably east of Rome. Only weak resistance was met west of Rome beyond the Tiber, where the Germans moved out hurriedly to extricate themselves from a possible trap.

Hundreds of Germans caught by the advance of the Fifth Army to the Tiber were captured when they were unable to make their way across the waterway and retire to the north.

Gen. Alphonse Juin's French troops meanwhile crossed highway five, main road from Rome to the Adriatic coast, at Tivoli in the foothills of the Sabine mountains.

CPL. J. CARLIN'S WOUNDS SLIGHT, LETTERS ADVISE

Several letters from the war department and from her husband himself, Cpl. Jack Carlin, in Corsica, have been received by Mrs. Carlin of 833 Hazel street, advising her that the wounds he received last month while in action in the Mediterranean area were slight and that there is no cause for worry.

Cpl. Carlin, who is attached to the army air corps, had been hospitalized in North Africa from November 6 to April 10 following injuries received in action in Italy and had been out of the hospital only 33 days when he received the wounds from which he is now recovering.

He entered service 26 months ago and sailed 10 months later for overseas duty. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Carlin of North Lafayette street, Mahoningtown.

SECOND PLEDGES FELLOWSHIP FUND

of the First Christian church of Youngstown, Ohio, was introduced by Rev. Rose and he responded with a brief talk using as his theme "The Value of Appreciation." Rev. Beach, who had an invasion service to conduct in his own church last evening had to cut his well-prepared talk short and hurry back to Youngstown. However, he did talk long enough to get over a most brilliant message to those gathered.

Rev. Beach, using appreciation as his theme, said in behalf of the proposed Fellowship Center that he heartily endorses the move and that there should be no hesitancy in doing what we at home can for the soldiers and sailors who will be coming home after the war.

A Fellowship center such as you folks propose to build here, will be a helpful and wholesome place for the men and women and children of the second U. P. church and community for many pleasant hours.

Need For Action
Rev. Beach reminded the congregation that worldly institutions today have something to sell to our youth, something which tears down their lives and bodies, and it is high time for the christian church to get busy and counteract this trend by offering something tangible to the young people in the way of wholesome fellowship and a place to congregate under God's guidance.

Altar of Prayer
The dinner and forceful talk by Rev. Beach ended the program of the dinner and the assembly gathered at 8 o'clock in the church auditorium for a half-hour "Altar of Prayer" service conducted by Rev. Rose. Mrs. Robert McCrumb, choir-leader, directed the singing and Mrs. Chester Shaffer assisted at the organ.

The congregation was deeply moved by the prayer offered by Rev. Rose for the boys and girls who "are over there" in the thick of the invasion battle, facing the supreme test.

Fellowship Fund Pledged
The third part of the evening's program was the raising of funds by pledge cards of the money necessary for the building of the proposed Fellowship Center.

posed Fellowship Center. Dr. J. Robert Brown, chairman of the Committee of Ten handling the details of the Center was introduced by Rev. Rose and gave a detailed account of what has been done by his committee.

The goal set by the committee is $20,000. Of this amount members of the church present last night pledged the total of $13,371.50. Many members unable to attend last night have signified their intentions of pledging money for the project.

The new building which is to be a brick, will have recreation rooms for the families of the congregation and returning servicemen and women, and will also serve as an addition to the Sunday school, which is in dire need of more room at the present time. The church facilities will be greatly increased by the building. Both the committee and the people present last night were gratified by the generous response the assembly gave.

Sinister Strike Threats

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Within the ranks of organized labor, there must be those who want to destroy trade unionism in America. That is the only possible explanation for some of the strikes that have occurred recently.

In St. Louis, in Detroit, in other war industry centers there have been wildcat walkouts that threaten industrial anarchy. Particularly conspicuous are the strikes in the field of power and transportation.

These would seem to follow a sinister pattern. In the rise of Hitler, it was a definite part of the Nazi technique to infiltrate into key unions. The objective was to push disruptive tactics intended deliberately to stir middle-class hostility.

Nazi Tactics

Fomenting trouble, the Nazis could then shout from the house tops that they had a cure—the national socialist state with a beneficently controlled labor front. Businessmen who fell for that line were to find later on that the cure was worse than the disease, but by that time all liberty of choice was foreclosed.

In some of the literature of the neo-fascist organizations in this country, this theme has been brought to light. American followers of the Hitler technique were urged to get into vital unions such as those controlling power and transportation. There they could further the plot to "take over."

While in part this can be put down to the brazenness of crackpots, I believe it would be worth while to look closely into the origins of recent strikes that have tied up whole industrial areas. Such an investigation might disclose nothing more than the undisciplined restlessness of workers in a disorganized union. On the other hand, it might show something a lot more serious.

It doesn't do any good to go on telling the general public that the number of days lost in strikes is infinitesimal compared to the vast production of millions of workers on the job week in and week out, often under most trying and difficult conditions.

The number of strikes is small. From the department of labor, I have the latest figures which show that in April, 580,000 man days of work—as much work as one can do in an eight hour shift—were lost through strikes. That is eight hundredths of one per cent—0.8 per cent of the total man days worked in that month. For May the figure was 415,000 or 0.6 per cent. For the year 1943, 13,500,000 man days were lost—15 per cent—of which 9,000,000 were in the coal strike.

Recognizes Threat

R. J. Thomas, president of the United Auto Workers, in his statement of last week, clearly recognized the threat to all unions. It is a question, as he said, of survival in the postwar period and nothing less.

Huge increases in union membership have made discipline difficult. The vicious leadership of some unions has been an incentive to anarchy. Democratic control and trade union education have been weak. These are facts that make legitimate labor leadership all the harder. But the general public, with nearly 4,000,000 brothers, husbands and fathers overseas is in no mood to make allowances.

One of the tragedies out of all this is the damage to the morale of the 99 per cent who stay on the job or try to stay on the job. The indignation is often so sweeping that it takes in all workers.

Overlooked is the important fact that the 99 per cent have turned the "rick" War materials in literally stupendous quantities are moving to all the fronts of this global war. I saw some figures the other day on industrial casualties. The statistics made that industrial accidents were in excess of casualties on the war fronts in spite of all precautions, hundreds of men and women are injured every day. Victims of the war, they get little or no recognition.

The immediate harm done by the turmoil over strikes will be eased. The real damage is likely to be carried over into the troubled time certain to follow the end of hostilities.

Legitimate unions are a necessary part of an industrial democracy such as ours. Surely only a few diehards would deny that today. Yet, if the anarchy persists, all the gains of recent years will be wiped out. Then the choice may be between Fascist controls and blood conflict.

QUARRELING

Sometimes parents are much concerned about children quarreling. Perhaps there is not much cause for worry.

Children quarrels are usually soon forgotten. If Dick is too quarrelsome or domineering, perhaps the rest of the kids will hang up on him and take him down a peg.

It seems as though quarreling is not limited to children. Older people and even nations seem to quarrel more or less.

Children quarrel and learn to adjust their differences. After while they find out that quarreling does not help very much.

Perhaps they should be taught that if they start a quarrel they should be willing to take the consequences.

They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountain, for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 8:34. Sun rises tomorrow 5:23.

Most girls are more proficient in handling a curling iron than a potato peeler.

Money talks in all languages.

He who laughs last can't see the joke at first.

Anti-nuke drives are being put on in some places. New Castle would be a good place to put one on.

Ohio burglars stole $550 hidden in a restaurant ice box. Cold cash but, unfortunately for the proprietor, not frozen.

After the baby comes, the husband becomes as much neglected and forgotten as an old bachelor's grave.

SELF IMPROVEMENT

Sure, we all want to be something better than we are. But most of us do not know where to start.

So here is a universal formula... a sort of universal solvent. Get off to yourself somewhere. Then take a pencil and paper and make a list of all your faults. Next, number or list them in their proper order. Head the list with your more serious or glaring fault, then your second worst, etc.

No need to save the list, destroy it. But the writing it down will help you to clarify your thoughts and automatically suggests what you should do to correct your worst faults and habits.

Nothing is more sacred than sincere grief... except perhaps, unselfish love.

It doesn't take a very intelligent person to hold a good deal of conceit.

Confiding son: Mother, what's the best way to propose to a girl? Mother: When the right girl comes along, my son, you won't need any advice.

A "High Old Time" seems highest when the bill is presented.

It is a noticeable thing that people who borrow trouble are always generous about sharing the loan with others.

When a boy's mother admits that he is "a little wild" you need not so far to find some one who considers him "a young lion."

Little things please little minds. "Why did you sit out every dance last night?" Jimmy Cretakes asked Miss Ophelia, our information miss.

"My feet were killing me." "Oh, are they any better today?" asked Jimmy sympathetically.

"Yes," answered Miss Ophelia in a tired voice, "but now I've got a cracked rib."

We seem to be signing government forms every hour of the day; and we don't know what we're signing nor does any other signer, in our opinion.

Overheard on the bus: "She's the kind of girl who makes you forget she has been eating green onions."

Teacher—Who can give me an example of righteous indignation? All right, Gerald.

Gerald—Getting mad enough to cuss, but keeping your mouth shut.

From the woman's point of view it's too bad that there are so few millionaires.

PLUS AND MINUS

The teacher was testing out the kids in arithmetic. "If I laid four eggs over on the table and four more on the desk, how many would there be?" she asked.

The class was silent, then one hand was raised. "Teacher," said the hand's owner, "we'd like to see you do it."

Crime is like a pair of shoes, we don't pay any attention to them until they begin to pinch.

Be sure you are right, then sit down by the side of the road until the procession has a chance to catch up.

Woman—Will my false teeth look natural? Dentist—Lady, I'll make them so natural they'll ache.

Junior: "What is a rare volume?" Dad: "It's a book that comes back after you have loaned it."

One of our busy (aren't they all doing a grand job) doctors paused long enough to tell us that the best exercise for reducing is to rotate the head slowly but firmly from right to left and back again, when asked to have a second helping.

My idea of an old timer is one who can remember when the proprietor of the general store could be persuaded to throw in a pair of suspenders when a fellow fought a suit.

One can always recognize women who trust their husbands. They look so thoroughly unhappy.—Oscar Wilde.

"We came into this world all naked and bare; we go through this world, grabbing all that we dare; we go out of this world, Lord only knows where, but if we're thoroughbreds here, we will be thoroughbreds there."

Customer: "The sausages you sent to me were meat at one end and bread crumbs at the other."

Butcher: "Quite so, madam. In these hard times it is very difficult to make both ends meet."

Love is blind. This is especially true of the love of money. It can't see the difference between honesty and crookedness.

Some women claim they have model husbands. Often say their men are models, too, but not of the working variety.

Warm nights, when the windows are open, remind us of the misery of warfare. Soldiers have no screens to window out part of the bugs.

Mother to son wandering around room: "What are you looking for?" Son—Nothing.

Mother—You'll find it in the box where the candy was.

The devil has an advantage. Those who work against him disagree on methods, become competitors, and hate one another more than they hate him.

A San Diego man, trying to cheer himself up a bit, said this to his wife: "Well, mother, whatever may happen to the car, I have a good jack."

Wasn't it awful the way Chinese women used to bind their feet? They couldn't slip the binding off at the movies.

Sie: "Honey, do you believe in love at first sight?" He: "I believe in love at first opportunity."

Good Taste

By FRANKIE MARVEL

Reprimand your children in your hearing and I can readily appreciate your background, your sense of refinement, the type of mother you had, indeed, everything connected with your past social life.

Don't think I recommend the "spare the rod and spoil the child" theory. For I most certainly do not! All children are born with the instincts of little savages. It is only through careful training and surveillance that they become entirely civilized and cultured.

Give your children this advantage by making your most emphatic demands in a quiet non-hysterical, yet firm voice—but one that cannot be heard for several blocks.

Many a good mother screams corrections at her children as she would at her worst enemy, yet she would defend them with her life were thus humiliated by anyone else. She does not realize that this treatment results merely from her own anger at being annoyed and not with any idea of training her recalcitrant offspring.

Rough talk and treatment do not develop happy children. On the contrary, youngsters thus treated become as uncouth as their parents, nervous wrecks or sullen and unhappy, looking forward to the day when they may escape to a more calm, refined atmosphere—when they may run away and become independent.

It is such parents who create some phases of juvenile delinquency.

Question: I am to be married soon in an afternoon, street-length dress with three-quarter-length sleeves. Should I wear gloves? If so, what length? Should my maid-of-honor wear gloves?—Bride.

Answer: Gloves are not a necessity with informal clothes, but they do form a complete ensemble, so I recommend that you wear three-quarter-length gloves to meet your sleeves. Your maid-of-honor should, then, wear gloves.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

MORE YOUTH CENTERS NEEDED

OVER THE country there have sprung up scores of youth centers but in my judgment, not nearly enough of them. The main idea of a youth center is a place for teenage boys and girls to gather for recreation of their own choice and making, equipped with a jukebox, soft drink and hot dog counter, games and a dancing floor.

In my special bulletin, "How Juvenile Delinquency Can Be Curbed," I discuss many other things, but have this to say about the youth center: "Youth centers have great possibilities, especially for the youths of the 9th to 12th grade levels. They need to be initiated and conducted by youths themselves, with standards approved by the high school authorities and leading civic clubs sponsored by these clubs and subsidized (preferably) by them. Obviously the recreational and scholastic program of the school rather than conflict with them. They should not be open when the high school has a public recreation function, nor during regular school hours by day, nor on nights before school days. Therefore they should be open on Friday and Saturday nights, and afternoons and evenings of holidays, as a rule.

A good youth center can be wholly self-supporting. It must be subsidized. It should have a hostess to maintain the standards and enforce the rules drawn up by the youths themselves with the approval of the sponsoring adult counselors.

For summer vacation, the youth center in many places should be open several more nights a week than during the school year. Children from 10 to 14 need recreation under trained leadership with meetings by day, and occasionally in the early evening.

Thanks to the modern way of bringing up children, a good many youths of today insist that they are wholly self-sufficient and that even the presence of adults should not be allowed. If these youths were a bit wiser, they would welcome the counsel of adults, and for the success of their own enterprise. A very few youngsters with low standards of behavior can, without the backing and counsel of adults, wreck the center. Then self-respecting youths with fairly high ideals will themselves soon desert any center which lacks a certain level of decorum and parents and civic organizations which have subsidized and backed it will withdraw their financial and moral support.

At best, few youth centers can meet the recreation needs of nearly all youths. Schools, churches and other organizations should do more rather than less to provide wholesome ways for adolescent boys and girls to have good times together. In that bulletin I say:

"No matter how fine the recreation program for youngsters, if they are to be of any use to the community, they must be able to get along on their own without the aid of adults."

The reason you come upon so much emotional and journalistic press about the past-war world is because there is almost nothing else to talk or write about without fear of hurting the war effort. Campaign orators find the P. W. world a subject "most perfectament," as our friends the Latin Americans say.

Speaking of the Latin Americans, I come by short, direct steps to the life of the Brazilian ambassador, Carlos Martins, and to her most recent sculptures now being exhibited in the Valentine gallery in New York.

"The Amazonian nature" of Madame Martin's work has enchanted blase Manhattan, so friends write me. "With a courage born of innocence," that period in the life of Eden in the first days of Adam's acquaintance with Eve when no one had heard of that disagreeable word "sin," Madame Martins has discovered the calendar and taken us back to the year one.

And she has done it in bronze and also in gold set with hunks of jewels.

There are likewise the jungles of the Amazon, voodoo, the cordial en-ente and the menace of the bush master in the exhibit, so I am told. I wish Madame Martins would bring it to Washington. She's a gay, daring and beautiful woman, I admire her—whatever she's up to.

What an encouragement she must be to many South American women. For below the Rio Grande women generally keep meekly in the background. It is the men who swish around and make big noises—away from home—like grande caballeros.

BONDS ARE TIME

FATHER'S DAY is definitely in the groove of the times this year, with the National Father's Day committee joining with the U. S. Treasury Department to push the Father Bond Drive which will culminate on June 18.

Saluting our "Fighting Dads," the day will fit right in with the drive for victory, instead of being a side issue carried over from peace times. The older father and the war worker father will both be represented in the official poster which will be on display in stores and other buildings throughout the country.

Washington Report

Union For Domestic Workers Is Advocated
Post War World Topic Safe For Politicos
Wife Of Brazilian Ambassador Real Artist

By HELEN ESSARY

Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Some of my friends will be in a tangle with me after they read this—but I am beginning to believe that the only solution to the domestic labor problem is unionization.

Many women, especially Washington women, will soon agree with this, though it at first seems a radical viewpoint. Washington is both supported and devoured by the Government. The government is an octopus.

The fact that it is an octopus without which we cannot live as a nation does not make its present custom of snatching up your cook and paying her twice what you can afford to pay for her help any pleasant.

For those servants who do not want to go into "The Government" there should be some unionization, some wage scale, some arrangement of work and pay that will protect the employer and employee. I haven't an idea how this arrangement can be applied to the long hours of domestic labor and to the inefficient of some servants who now demand top wages for bottom work.

But I am willing to do my share of co-operation. Every wise housekeeper who needs assistance in her job of homemaking will eventually co-operate, too. She must.

I don't suggest we go into this union at once. Not while the turmoil and distress of war is whirling us like tops. When the war is ended, however, and all of us—employer and employee—have simmered down, then let's try to meet on a reasonable plane and talk sense.

Long Convalescence Ahead

The I. G. being silly and romantic about the pretty post-war world. Doing exactly what I so condemn in other people.

Other people talk about the pretty post-war world as if it were to be made up of floating about on pink radar clouds into endless perfumed daisy fields.

At any time, actually propose that when people have finished killing each other it will be easy to sit down calmly with those you have been busily hating and "talk sense." I suppose then we'll even be asking the vanquished to congratulate the victor. Take up the manner of talking about the post-war world.

I don't care how many smooth promises the politicians make, nor how many glass-walled kitchen manufacturers promise us in the P. W. world, nor how come-hither the post-bellum perfume, rugs, airplanes and refrigerators will be. I still see long, miserable years of convalescence after this, the most terrible illness the world has ever struggled through.

Are you patiently waiting for the armistice before making your building repairs or remodeling plans? If you are, you may be making a mistake. For authorities tell us that we can expect demands for building materials that will far outstrip supplies just as soon as priorities are lifted. Then—you may be finding yourself standing way at the end of a long line of frantic customers.

So, we suggest that you start now to make your plans—it will take a little time and you will perhaps want some help which we can give you. Then you will be ready when work can proceed and knowing your needs, we will be ready too.

For we have worked out a plan to help you with your proposed construction work. We register every job—then as soon as materials and man power are available, we notify those who are registered and work can start immediately. Some jobs we might be able to do right now. Allied Supply Planes Carry Airplane Fuel

Reveal Extensive Plans Made For Air Assaults Against Hitler's Europe

By THOMAS C. WATSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, June 7.—Extensive preparations for American and British air assaults against Adolf Hitler's Europe from bases on the soil of his occupied continent were revealed by the British radio today.

Broadcasts beamed from London throughout the United Kingdom and to Europe told of Allied supply planes carrying airplane fuel to the newly-established beachheads in northern France.

Information at supreme Allied headquarters said that Allied planes "probably" are depositing high octane airplane fuel in France for possible later use and that ground preparatory crews went in as part of the invasion force.

Other radio messages told of Allied engineering troops landed in France soon after the first invasion forces building airstrips in various areas for early Allied use.

A blue network broadcast from London heard in New York said that Allied "buddies" already are at work "carving out the first Royal Air Force airfield on the coast of France."

The British radio reported air force engineering squadrons were parachuted into France along with or soon after the first Allied troops landed, to establish footholds on continental Europe.

There was no official announcement regarding establishment of an Allied Air Force "within Europe" but British broadcasts gave clear indications that this was part of the general allied plan.

Air-Borne Troop Reinforcements Being Landed

HEADQUARTERS ALLIED EXPEDITIONARY AIR FORCE, June 7.—(INS)—Allied air-borne reinforcements were landed on the Cherbourg Peninsula during the night and early today.

Three troop carrier waves of the United States Ninth air force, forming a 50-mile long train, took off at 6:25 p. m. last night, an official communique revealed. These were followed by two other waves.

Taking advantage of the twilight the last two waves crossed the English Channel shortly after 9:30 p. m. Landing at pre-designated positions, gliders carried into consolidated areas a steady stream of men, equipment and supplies.

Three waves of Ninth air force gliders, towed by C-47 cargo planes followed after a three-hour interval by two more waves later last night and this morning, reinforced with air-borne infantry and supplies seized positions on the Cherbourg peninsula, the communique said.

German Leader Asserts Decisive Phase Reached

LONDON, June 7.—(INS)—Field Marshal Karl Rudolph Gerd Von Rundstedt, Adolf Hitler's personal choice to forestall or defeat Allied invasion of Europe, broke a spell of 24-hour silence today with a communique indicating a decisive phase of battle may have been reached. The communique naturally was widely distributed by Nazi propaganda agencies and alleged Allied reverses. But from the historical point of view it was of parallel interest and importance to the first German high command announcement of the last war and was published fully by all London newspapers.

The first official announcement from the Prussian militarist placed above Field Marshal Erwin Rommel in responsibility for opposing the Allied offensive, declared that Allied forces had come into contact with German "tactical reserves."

Only a short while before, Allied supreme headquarters disclosed that when Allied invasion troops met German reserves, a bitter battle could be anticipated.

that the beachhead established on the northern coast of France by sea-borne and air-borne troops has now been converted into a bridgehead.

By KINGSBURY SMITH
U. S. S. Staff Correspondent

Supreme Headquarters, Allied Expeditionary Force, June 7.—Establishment of an Allied bridgehead five to six miles deep within France was confirmed at an American fighter station in England today coincident with German admissions to the same effect and mounting indications a major battle is now in progress.

Lee Carson, International News Service War Correspondent assigned to headquarters of the United States Ninth Air Force tactical command, was able to disclose that the Allied holdings in northern France now stretch from five to six miles inland from Valognes on the Cherbourg peninsula to Trouville on the Seine estuary.

German broadcasts picked up in London simultaneously admitted that Allied bridgehead is now "about 20 miles broad and more than six miles deep."

German Claims

A German agency DNB broadcast said:

"The Allied bridgehead on either side of the river Orne is now about 20 miles broad and at some points up to six miles deep."

The Orne, which cuts through the invaded city of Caen, empties into the English channel midway between Arromanches and Trouville.

The Nazi radio meantwile admitted that some of the strongpoints of the German west wall have been put out of action by Allied invasion forces.

One broadcast from Berlin said: "The continued Allied landings on the second day of the invasion are not welcome in the German high command, which is desirous of drawing the enemy into the battle-field and beating him even though possibly some German strongholds have been knocked out."

The number of paratroops dropped by the Allies, Berlin said, "runs into many divisions."

Reinforcements were thrown into Allied coastal and interior positions in France in vast numbers.

Headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, announcing that "progress" was made throughout yesterday in fulfillment of the master plan of liberating Europe, said that "heavy fighting" was under way in some areas.

Dispatch of air-borne reinforcements was resumed successfully during the night despite unfavorable channel weather. Gen. Eisenhower's third communique said:

General Picture

With the mammoth allied assault against Adolf Hitler's Europe, some 36 hours under way, this was the general picture presented:

1.—The German high command claimed that allied invasion units had come into contact with Nazi "tactical reserves," precipitating a major encounter in the vicinity of Bayeux, midway between Le Havre and Cherbourg, some 20 miles northwest of Caen.

2.—For the second day in succession, German naval opposition to allied landings was negligible, although Nazi air force activity increased.

3.—Some German coastal artillery defenses are still in operation despite pulverizing allied air and sea attack but these are now under renewed fire.

4.—Field Marshal Karl Rudolph Gerd von Rundstedt, supreme commander of German anti-invasion forces throughout Europe, issued his first communique. In it he said that allied forces had made contact with German reserves, a contingency that Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters had predicted would lead to heavy fighting.

5.—Weather over the straits of Dover and the English channel continued generally unfavorable but some improvement was noted, with high cloud banks affording aerial cover.

6.—Coincident with Von Rundstedt's announcement of a major engagement in the Bayeux sector, German broadcasts reported a new amphibious landing "attempt" across the straits of Dover—the narrowest section of the English channel between Great Britain and France. The channel here is only 21 miles wide.

Points Stressed

In official communique No. 3 disclosing that "air-borne operations were resumed successfully last night," the commander-in-chief of Europe's liberation stressed the important role of American Rangers and British Commandos, the absence of German naval opposition and said:

"Allied forces continued landing on the northern coast of France throughout yesterday."

"Satisfactory progress was made."

Ninth air force pilots returning to British bases from night-long and day-long attacks reported that fiercest fighting now appears to be in progress in the Bayeux area of northern France. This town is close to the channel coast on the Seine bay about midway between Le Havre and Cherbourg.

The allies, these fliers said, are making every effort to drive inland and the air forces are "cooperating tremendously" to liquidate enemy defenses.

Heavy Fighting

"Very heavy fighting has been experienced by allied troops combating the Germans in some parts of northern France, official information."

This apparently applied to air-borne landing places in the interior as well as on the beachheads.

A spokesman used the term "very heavy fighting" in applications to "certain beachheads."

By midday yesterday, however, at least some of the areas concerned were "free of direct German fire," probably by allied air attack or naval bombardment.

Some Craft Swamped

Although no casualties were suffered in the initial invasion thrusts, headquarters disclosed, some small craft were swamped.

The due to unfavorable weather, which "left considerable to be desired" in furtherance of the initial allied success. Weather conditions were officially regarded as "better" this morning, with higher clouds aiding air support.

At 11 a. m. British time, however, there was a blustering wind over the straits of Dover and occasional storm gusts, with waves in mid-channel about three feet high.

Conditions in the channel, however, had little or no effect upon myriads of allied bombing, fighting and supply planes which swept over and back in shuttle attack throughout the day to bolster the invasion front and deal punishing new blows to Nazi defenses in France and Germany.

Batteries Not All Obliterated

Although most of the enemy coastal batteries in the invasion area were stunned by preliminary allied bombardment, some were not entirely obliterated, headquarters revealed, and since have come into action again.

Air and naval forces are now engaged in subjecting them.

The feeling at headquarters was that at the moment, neither optimism nor pessimism can be expressed over the present stage of operations. The weather in general is still unfavorable, with improvements only slight.

The general attitude at headquarters was summed up by a spokesman who said that operations still were going according to plan, with the enemy not yet showing his hand fully and presumably hoping to move up his reserves until he has more definite information. Bitter fighting then may be expected, it was said.

Speaker Tells Of FBI And War

F. B. I. Agent Tells Lions Club How F. B. I. Cir-cumvented Fifth Columnists

HONOR ROLL OF CLUB DEDICATED

New Castle Lions club members heard an interesting talk from H. C. Kiehe, Federal Bureau of Investigation agent, who spoke in particular about the work of the F. B. I. in national defense.

As early as 1939, the F. B. I. was given the go ahead signal by President Roosevelt to check up on fifth column activities. With the result that as soon as we entered the war, the bureau had a good line on potential enemy agents.

There was only one case of organized sabotage that of the men sent here specially from Germany whose intentions were to disrupt communications on the B. & O. and Pennsylvania railroads east of Pittsburg and to damage the light metal industry. They were caught before they had a chance to do any damage.

Real Sabotage Scarce

Up to March 1, 1944, 14,565 cases of sabotage or unusual industrial accidents believed due to sabotage were investigated by the bureau, only 1,505 cases being found to be actual sabotage. There were 525 persons convicted and some cases are still pending.

Several espionage rings were investigated and the principals arrested, the most famous being the Duquesne ring. Between 500 and 600 persons have been denaturalized because of enemy leanings, he stated.

In addition, the F. B. I. has been the Selective Service enforcement body and has made available to the armed forces 146,405 former delinquents. There have been 8,075 prosecuted as of March 1st for Selective Service violation.

Dedicate Honor Roll

The Lions dedicated an honor roll to the men in service, eight members being enrolled in the different branches. They are Jay L. Reed, James E. Peacock and Dr. Travis A. French in the army, Louis D. Hazen, Marine Corps, and Pearson A. Furst, George F. Winter, Jr., Hugh Graham and Clyde D. Badger in the navy.

It was announced that the Ladies of the Lions will have an indoor picnic at The Castleton next Tuesday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

The club also voted to continue their bond sale activities and Thuro Letto was named chairman for the coming campaign.

Guests included G. Earle Williams of Miami, Fla.; Harry Brokart of East Liverpool, O.; Lee L. Lamm of R. D. 7, Elmer D. O'Neill of New Castle, Charles L. Sellers of Meadville and Sgt. Mearl Bees.

Mail Gets To Front As Soon As Possible

Don't Worry About Delays In Soldiers' Letters: Just Write, With Correct Address

Writing to complain that your mail hasn't been reaching a soldier soon enough just drains some of the limited manpower of the mail organization by requiring further correspondence, investigation and research, reminds the public relations office of the fourth naval district.

Every kind of transportation, from jeeps and trucks to planes and warships, is being used to keep the mail moving as the best of all ways to boost the morale of the fighting men.

One of the main reasons for delayed mail is the failure of people at home to put complete, readable addresses on the letters, or the failure of servicemen to send the correct address to families and friends.

When men are being transferred, their ultimate destination is often not known to the command under which they have been stationed, and there is no way of forwarding their mail to them quickly. That is the reason they are requested to have their correspondents hold back their letters until they give a definite address.

Sometimes ships must be detoured, or trucks may not be available for transporting mail inland, or roads must be built, or weather conditions may hold up air mail. People also fail to realize the tremendous distances which must be covered, especially in the Pacific.

The Army and Navy ask you to go slow in condemning the mail service. But don't go slow in writing to the boys. The mail will be delivered, tomorrow if possible; next week, perhaps, but always as fast as available transportation will permit. Write every day.

WMC Regulations To Suit Localities

Local Committees To Have Latitude In Applying Priority Referral Program

Regional directors will be able to make arrangements exempting certain employees, employees, or certain communities from the priority referral program, Area Manpower Director Paul P. Murphy said today.

The War Manpower Commission's extended program is to be in effect here by July 1, but in certain cases would not contribute to the placing or retention of workers in jobs where they are not needed, or where the administrative difficulties would be too great, the exemptions may be made.

There arrangements may be authorized where the establishment has fewer than eight employees for outlying communities where the results would not justify the operation of the program, Mr. Murphy said. The new regulations do not apply to farm employees, either.

No Employment Ceilings

Employment ceilings and manpower priorities committees will not be necessary in this community as long as it is still in group III. Localities with a surplus labor supply will have to provide some of the manpower for war production in other areas, Mr. Murphy declared. This responsibility must be met by each community just as bond drives, salvage campaigns and other parts of the war effort are met.

"Workers who leave an area to go on to a shortage area are acting in the interest of fighting men from their own community, and not merely to relieve a labor shortage elsewhere," the area director explained.

Details Completed Locally

Complete details of the extended program await further study by regional and state directors and regional, state and local management-labor committees. Local authorities, including the management-labor committee in New Castle, will have wide latitude in determining just how the national policies will be applied to local conditions.

Garden Notes

SECOND PLANTING OF BEANS IS RECOMMENDED

Vegetable gardeners should make a second planting of beans about three weeks to a month after the first planting.

With a second planting, the crop may come along at a time when the weather is more favorable. Both snap beans and lima beans should be planted. The pole beans are likely to bear longer, but bush bean varieties are more likely to fit into garden plans just now, and will mature quicker.

Late plantings of beans can utilize those spaces where the early crops, such as radishes, lettuce, onions, or spinach, already have been harvested.

Beans can be kept bearing for a long time, if picked when pods are of the best table variety. A second planting may assure a satisfactory crop when weather conditions and attacks by disease or insect pests affect the early crop.

WAS IT JOE?

Judge W. Walter Braham has his own ideas as to who the American soldier was who climbed up the Palazzo Venezia in Rome (Mussolini's former roost) and made a speech, imitating the Sawdust Caesar's oratorical gymnastics. "The dispatch says it was an enlisted man," said "hizzoner," "but I still have a hunch that it was Attorney Joe Solomon who loves to make a speech, makes a good one, and has just the right streak of humor to do such a thing."

Mrs. Eisenhower Asks For Faith

NEW YORK, June 7.—(INS)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower, wife of the supreme allied commander, urged Tuesday that everyone have faith during the many trying hours ahead and keep "as cheerful and as busy as possible."

Mrs. Eisenhower's message, read during a special NBC broadcast, said: "We're eager to help in some big way and yet if we could ask our fighting men what they would have us do, they would tell us 'ours' is the job to fight, yours to help, by keeping as cheerful and as busy as possible."

U. S. Battalion Had Tough Time

Anzio Beachhead Battalion
Trapped For Ten Days
Within 200 Yards Of German Lines

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(INS)—How his battalion was trapped in a cave on the Anzio beachhead for 10 days, within 200 yards of enemy lines, was told by Private First Class Donald L. Dishong, 24, of R.F.D. 1, Johnstown, Pa., a doughboy with the 45th Infantry Division who has returned to the United States under the Army's rotation plan.

"Our outfit," said Dishong, who was a rifleman and later a squad leader, "fought its way across no man's land, and, when the fighting really got tough, we took a holding point, a huge limestone cave—the biggest cave I've ever seen."

"We found that we were surrounded by Jerries. Our entire battalion was trapped in the cave, under a mammoth cliff. The enemy lines were 200 yards away."

"The only way we could get food was for volunteers to sneak out at night and crawl down a creek to a point at which rations were dumped, a quarter of a mile from the cave. Our men would crawl out of the cave under cover of darkness, creep down through a draw to the creek, and work their way to the ration dump."

Many Men Lost

"Every night, some of the men were lost. And every day, we seemed to be surrounded by more and more Germans. I admit we were scared, nervous, and tense, but it's a fact that we never lost hope, and there never was any thought of surrender. We figured that somebody would find a way to get us out of there."

"And we were right. After 10 days, infantry and tanks blasted an aisle for us right through the German lines and we managed to get out on a good, dark night. But if the doughboys and the tanks hadn't kept the Jerries busy while we were moving down through the draw, I guess we'd be there yet."

John A. Bober Will Be Ordained Priest

Is Among Class Of 19 At St. Vincent's Seminary To Be Ordained Sunday, June 11

(Special To The News)

LATROBE, Pa., June 7.—The Rev. John A. Bober, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bober of 171 South Jefferson street, New Castle, will be among the 19 young men to be ordained priests for the diocese of Pittsburgh by the Most Rev. Bishop Boyle of Pittsburgh, on Sunday, June 11, at 8 o'clock in the St. Vincent Archabbey church, Latrobe.

Father Bober is a graduate of St. Philip and James parochial school, New Castle, and later attended New Castle high. After his graduation at New Castle high, Father Bober attended college, and graduated from St. Mary's college, Orchard Lake, Mich., in 1940, where he was awarded his Bachelor of Arts degree.

He entered St. Vincent in the fall of 1940, and continued his priesthood studies. While at the seminary, Father Bober was a member of the St. Thomas Homiletic society and the St. Thomas Polish society.

Father Bober will read his first solemn high mass at St. Philip and James church, New Castle, on Sunday, June 18, at 11 o'clock. The ministers for the first mass will be the Rev. V. Stanciewicz, archpriest; the Rev. Aloysius Jezewski, deacon; and the Rev. John Pic, sub-deacon. The Rev. V. Stanciewicz will preach the sermon. The master of ceremonies will be the Rev. A. Koziatek and James O'Connor.

Tenant Eviction Allows 3 Months

New Owners Must File Petition In Order To Get Possession
Of House

Moving into a newly purchased house when there is a tenant already in possession is not as simple a matter as many people have thought, Rev. Charles O. Rice, area rent director, warns.

An owner may get possession of a house that he has purchased, but he has to petition the area rent office for a certificate of eviction. After the certificate is issued, he then must wait three months. Furthermore, the certificate is granted only to those new owners who have paid at least 20 per cent of the purchase price in non-borrowed funds.

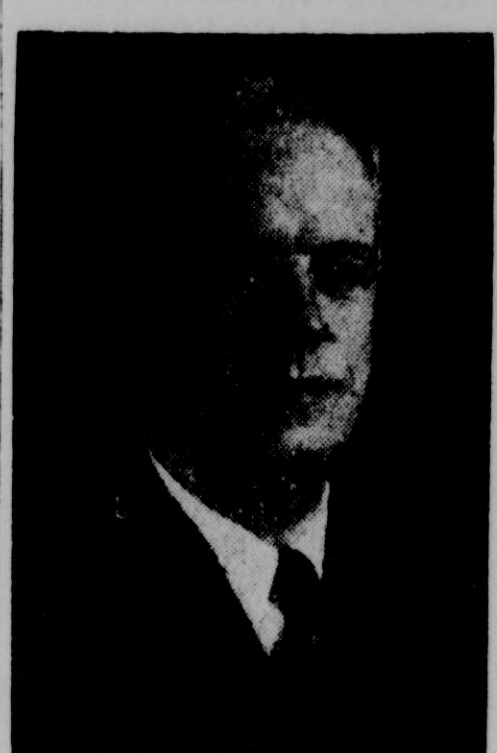

Certain exemptions can be made in cases of special hardship, but these situations are rare, Rev. Rice says. These instructions apply only when there is a tenant in possession.

The fact that so many people are buying their own homes is causing a great increase in the number of petitions for certificates of eviction in the Pittsburgh area. Many of these petitions are filed by people who misunderstand the regulations, according to Rev. Rice. New buyers cannot automatically get possession of a house.

Amazing results in building STURDY BODIES!

1—Promote the flow of vital digestive juices
in the stomach

2—Energize your body with RICH, RED BLOOD!

YOUNG people, especially those of grammar and high school age, are prone to be deficient in stomach digestive juices and red-blood.

A growing person who is operating on a 65 to 70% healthy blood volume or a stomach digestive capacity of only 50 to 60% normal is severely handicapped. In such cases Nature needs extra help. Organic troubles or focal infection, if they exist, must be corrected. Tissue foods must be digested and rich, red-blood must be present to build sturdy bodies.

SSS Tonic is especially designed (1) to promote the flow of VITAL DIGESTIVE JUICES in the stomach which digest the food so the body can make proper use of it in tissue building and (2) to build-up BLOOD STRENGTH when deficient.

These two important results enable the body to make use of the food as Nature intended. Thus you may gain a keen appetite . . . firm flesh . . . body energy . . . mental alertness!

Build Sturdy Health and Help America Win

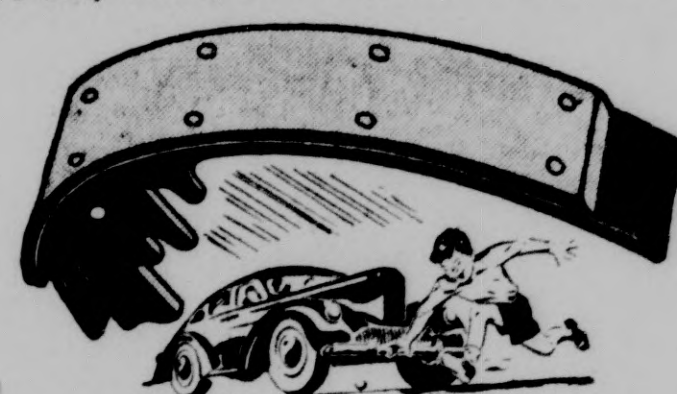

Thousands and thousands of users have testified to the benefits SSS Tonic has brought to them and scientific research shows that it gets results—that's why so many say "SSS Tonic builds sturdy health—makes you feel like yourself again." At drug stores in 10 and 20 oz. sizes. © S.S.S. Co.

War Supply Bill Is Recommended

House Committee Approves Of $49,350,840,700 Bill For Invasion Support

WASHINGTON, June 7.—(INS)—The House appropriations committee today backed up American fighting men not spearheading the attack on Nazi Europe with a $49,350,840,700 war department supply bill for the invasion year starting July 1.

In recommending the new appropriation—which brings total war and national defense expenditures to $20 billion dollars since June, 1940—the committee held that should German resistance crumble in 1945 a lesser amount of funds might suffice.

There is no warrant, however, for such an assumption, the committee's report asserted. "Certainly if Germany should be defeated before the turn of the year, it is the purpose of the committee to recast the army's fiscal situation in mid-fiscal year."

New Tank Built
Of the total authorization in the new army supply bill, $15,677,869,700 represents new money and the remaining $33,672,971,000 unexpended balances from the 1944 fiscal year.

This year's war department appropriation represents nearly a 50 percent cut in the amount furnished for 1944 when the committee made available $74,211,949,961, and $241,837,905 below budget bureau requests for the 1945 fiscal year.

Army officials testified that a new medium tank—with greater fire power, heavier armor, improved performance in cross-country warfare and a lower silhouette—soon will be available for the invasion troops. Superior to the present "M-4" tanks, the new equipment will "outmatch any similar weapon which the enemy can put in the field against us," it was maintained.

Fliers Report Allied Troops Pushing Inland

By LEE CARSON

HEADQUARTERS OF THE U. S. NINTH AIR FORCE TACTICAL COMMAND, June 7.—The Allied beachhead in northern France, stretching more than 60 miles from Valognes on the Cherbourg peninsula to Trouville on the Seine estuary, has pushed inland a distance of from five to six miles, fliers stationed at this American fighter base disclosed today.

The Allied invasion forces in the Valognes-Trouville sector improved their positions overnight as the Navy continued to land men, guns and tanks in a steady stream.

Today those forces contacted Supreme Allied Headquarters in England to give a first-hand account of the situation on the invasion front.

At the same time, returning skip bombers, Marauders and Mustangs reported that the Luftwaffe has been seen to show itself, apparently operating from airfields in the Paris area.

Enemy infantry and panzer units also are rolling through the area southwest of Normandy and south of the British bridgehead.

South Side Board Plans New Building For Playground

Art Alexander, playground director, spoke to the group in connection with the new project.

"Germany now has to count with destructive blows from the west and east."

The tribute was broadcast by the British radio and heard by CBS.

Hurlers Boost Detroit Hopes

Lefty Newhouse And Dizzy Trout Have Won 14 Games

TROUT'S CAREER STARTED AT 18

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

Pitching wins pennants and 20-game winners are more or less prerequisites.

The Detroit Tigers, now edging toward the top of the American league standings, appear to have pitching and—two 20-game winners in Lefty Newhouse and Dizzy Trout.

Between them, Lefty and Dizzy have won 14 games by June 1. Newhouse's contribution to that total was eight victories, which is all he could win last season in 38 games.

Trout, a 20-game winner last year, appears to be on his way to another banner season and if Newhouse continues his present pace you'll be seeing the Tigers back in the world series picture they last appeared in after the 1940 season.

From Beaumont
Both Newhouse and Trout are products of the Tigers' farm at Beaumont in the Texas league. Trout, who was something of a colorful character when he burst into the majors, came up first, having pitched his last minor league ball in the 1938 season.

Newhouse came up from Beaumont the next season.
Newhouse, bothered with wildness earlier in his career, has settled down and become one of the Tiger aces. He has a remarkably fast ball and struck out 144 batters last season. At the same time, he walked more batters, 111, than any other flinger in the league.

Trout began his career as an 18-year-old youth. He hit the minors with Terre Haute and then moved up to A. A. ball with Indianapolis. Toledo was his next stop and then he was sent to the Tigers' Beaumont farm.

Trout Star in '38
At Beaumont, Trout was the pitching star of the league, winning 22 against only six losses in 1938. That brought him to the major City and he has stayed on the roster since. At first he was used sparingly, pitching only in relief roles. His record was poor until last season when he won his 20 games.

Newhouse, a native of Detroit, began his career with Alexandria in the Evangeline league in 1933. His fire ball was noticeable even at the start and he fanned 100 batters in 96 innings pitched.

One season at Beaumont and he was brought up by the Tigers although he had no minor league record to marvel at.
For the past three seasons he has struck out at least 100 or more batters. His best season with the Tigers was in 1940 when he won nine and lost nine.

ACES WIN GAME

The Aces baseball team won another game on Monday evening at Gaston Park field, taking the measure of the South Side A. C. 6 to 4. The winning hurler, was Eckles, the loser was Coppel. Eckles had 14 strikeouts for the Aces.

Cozy Corners Win Uphill League Tilt

Defeat Dean Park For Second Time
By Close Score Tuesday Evening In Legion League

Cozy Corners took their second game of the season from the strong Dean Park team, last year's American Legion Junior league champs, by a score of 4-3, but had to wage an uphill battle, in spite of the fact that Andrews limited the Dean Parkers to but three hits. One of these was a homer by Ross which proved timely. Vargo kept 10 hits fairly well scattered, giving way to Campbell in the seventh.

Dean Park scored first and by the end of the third inning were leading a 3-1 score. Cozy Corners tied it up in the fifth and eked out another in the seventh to clinch the contest. Davis with three hits and Andrews with a triple led the Cozy Corners attack.

In the two other games played, the strong Fannins smothered the young Cubs by a score of 17-2, while the Wolverines were trouncing the North Hill Cardinals by a 13-0 score.

Cusiano for the Fannins had a homer, while Parks, Fannin, right-fielder, had four for four to lead the attack. Stoner held the Cubs to three bingles. Fannins played Dean Park Dodgers at Lehigh field Thursday evening.

Bush, Cardinal first sacker, spoiled a no-hitter for Al Koszela, Wolverine hurler, when he secured a single. Hoch of the Cardinals was touched for 13 hits, including homers by Cwynar and Zoltani.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS LAND

The turf's 3-year-old division has a new candidate for title honors following Bounding Home's conquest of Pensive in last Saturday's Belmont Stakes but the impression remains that the name of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness winner would be on the select role of triple crown winners today had he been given a different type of ride.

In the Derby and Preakness, Conn McCrory waited until the last quarter-of-a-mile to make his run with the chestnut from Warren Wright's Calumet Farm. In the Belmont he shot Pensive to the front at the mile post and, when challenged by William Ziegler, Jr.'s colt at the quarter pole, the son of Hy-period didn't have enough left to match Bounding Home's stretch drive. A half-length separated them at the end of the mile and one-half.

Ben Jones, trainer of Pensive, also was of the opinion that McCrory had made his move too soon.

Farrell Booster club has inaugurated its 14th successive season of outdoor light promotions and from reports on the initial card presented last week the programs this season will be comparable to those of other years, according to the Sharon Herald. Booster officials are fortunate in having an outstanding crowd-pleaser like Berle Charity to build their programs around. The colored battler from Youngstown has exhibited sportsmanlike qualities as well as fighting ability in each of his fights here over a span of two years and has been accepted wholeheartedly by the fans.

One year ago Tuesday, Pittsburgh defeated the New York Giants twice, 18 to 1 and 7 to 0, for 12 out of last 15 games.
10 years ago: Before a crowd estimated at 500,000 persons, Windsor Lad, owned by the Maharaja of Rajpalia, wins the 151st Epsom Derby over the famous Columbo.
20 years ago: Cyril Walker of Englewood, N. J., wins a 297, wins the U. S. Open golf championship. Bobby Jones finishes second.

STOCK MARKET HIGHER TODAY

Invasion Successes Spur Buying In Market Speculative Circles

NEW YORK, June 7.—(INS)—Stocks were higher again today in the second day of the invasion market.

Initial successes on the beachhead in France rallied speculative interest to the buying side and many auto, heavy industry and oil shares improved.

Aggregate trading quieted down but many individual issues came in for heavy dealings.

The motors again were prominent, and higher. Chrysler rose 3/8 and General Motors 1/4. Willys Overland again was active.

One of the most dramatic advances of the first hours, however, was made by Standard Oil of N. J., on the basis of the optimistic earnings estimated by its president yesterday, the stock opened up 3/4 at 56 1/2 on a block of 1,000 shares. It then rose to a new 1944 high of 57 1/2.

Stewart Warner was 1/4 point higher and exceedingly active to feature the auto accessory division. Steels were quiet, but higher, led by a 1/2 point advance in U. S. Steel.

Rails were again backward, as were the utilities.

Grains were lower, cotton active and higher. Bonds were firm. Curb prices tended higher.

Report Remarks Bring Demotion

LONDON, June 7.—(INS)—A Major-General in the United States Army whose identity has not been disclosed has been sent home for indiscreet remarks about the Allied invasion date and reports in circulation today said he had been demoted to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel.

The high-ranking officer had been overheard discussing the invasion date with a companion at a London hotel.

Several less exalted officers and numerous enlisted men also have been sent home, according to reports in army circles, while others have been court-martialed in this country.

Aggregate trading quieted down but many individual issues came in for heavy dealings.

The motors again were prominent, and higher. Chrysler rose 3/8 and General Motors 1/4. Willys Overland again was active.

One of the most dramatic advances of the first hours, however, was made by Standard Oil of N. J., on the basis of the optimistic earnings estimated by its president yesterday, the stock opened up 3/4 at 56 1/2 on a block of 1,000 shares. It then rose to a new 1944 high of 57 1/2.

Stewart Warner was 1/4 point higher and exceedingly active to feature the auto accessory division. Steels were quiet, but higher, led by a 1/2 point advance in U. S. Steel.

Rails were again backward, as were the utilities.

Grains were lower, cotton active and higher. Bonds were firm. Curb prices tended higher.

Bond Campaign Needs Workers

Many More Needed In New Castle And Lawrence County It Is Stressed

"I'm too busy—I have a war garden—I'm cleaning house—I'm chairman of a committee in our bridge club—I expect to take a little vacation—I wouldn't be any good selling bonds—I don't like the war chairman—" ad infinitum, ad nauseum. You would hardly believe anyone would offer an alibi or excuse for not serving in the Fifth War Loan campaign but the above is a few samples of the alibis being offered.

The Fifth War Loan campaign starts officially on June 12 in Lawrence county. Actually all bonds purchased between now and then count in the county quota. The quota for Lawrence county is $7,010,000. It is true that every citizen should feel his personal responsibility in the matter of war bonds, that it shouldn't be necessary to have sales campaigns to get money to operate the war but it's true, not only here but in other places.

This campaign needs workers. Lots of them. Judge W. Walter Braham and Joel S. McKee, chairman and co-chairman of the campaign, can't be expected to carry the load alone, neither can the district chairman or any individual workers.

It takes team work and cooperation. You will probably be asked to help in some way. If you are not asked, get in touch with Roger Jewett, deputy chairman in the Greater New Castle Association of Officers and Volunteers.

But if you think you can't serve for any of the above reasons, or others just as puerile, why not write that kid overseas a letter and explain why you can't serve. After all he probably thinks you are interested in the war. Or are you?

Bond Purchases Urged By Head Of First National

Under the signature of Alex Crawford Hoyt, president of the First National Bank of Lawrence County, a letter has gone out to every depositor, calling his attention to the Fifth War Loan Campaign and offering the facilities of the bank in the purchase of bonds. The letter is an excellent one and as fine a piece of sales promotion by direct mail as has been seen in any of the campaigns.

Perhaps one paragraph of the letter says more than a description of the context would. The paragraph follows:

"War, unquestionably, is an expensive, wasteful, devastating institution, but freedom is cheap at any price. If you think the cost is too high, ask yourself the question propounded by Patrick Henry, 'Is life so dear or peace so sweet as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery?' It is well worth any sacrifice to know that if you do your part at home, a boy you know may live to fight on to final victory."

Jury May Complete Finding By Thursday

MERCER June 7—The grand jury resumed the hearings on the case of Janice Graham at 9 o'clock this morning. District Attorney Edwin C. Moon stated this morning that there will be no return made of the grand jury's findings in the case until the other Bills of Indictment have been heard and passed on, when a complete return will be made. It is thought at this time that the cases will be completed early this week and possibly they will bring in their findings some time Thursday.

Unusual Day Is Recorded In City

City's Response To Invasion Day Was Rather Unusual; Many Prayer Services

New Castle and a lot of other towns woke up a little bit startled but not too surprised yesterday morning.

Some sceptics thought it was another false alarm until the telephone calls of their friends were confirmed. There were no excited crowds down town, but telephone calls between 6 o'clock and 7 almost doubled the usual number, and the telegraph office was exceedingly busy.

Bus conversations were on one topic and by lunch time the topic hadn't changed.

More flags were flying on Washington street and other downtown side streets than have been out for months, and many private homes had flags out. Churches held prayer services both in the afternoon and in the evening. Some stores closed for a while to allow their clerks to attend one of the prayer services.

Superficially, a man from Mars landing in New Castle might not be able to tell that one of the greatest events of the war was beginning, unless he picked up an idea from the flags, or the news, or the church chiming in the afternoon.

But not very many of the people downtown shopping on June 6 felt quite the same as they felt the night of June 5. As one passer-by put it, "it seems like some queer sort of Sunday."

Charge War Workers Are Worst Offenders

Motor Federation Asserts Tire And Gasoline Regulations Are Violated

HARRISBURG, June 7—(INS)—The Pennsylvania Motor Federation bluntly asserted today that war workers were the "worst offenders" against tire and gasoline conservation and endorsed a three-point program to combat the problem as the nation steeled itself for home front sacrifices.

The federation, which claims more than 178,000 members, made public a report of the American Automobile Association criticizing enforcement of war time conservation programs for motorists.

"Generally speaking," the report declared, "war workers who enjoy the highest priority in securing automobiles, tires and gasoline, are wholly indifferent to conservation in any manner shape or form."

"The situation in many areas is so critical that even the police hesitate to patrol roads for fear of being run down, while many stretches of highways leading to and from war plants are avoided by civilians," the report asserted.

A survey of representative war plants by the AAA parent organization of the state federation, prompted a statement alleging "war workers are notoriously wasteful of transportation."

Local Navy Nurse Meets F.D.R. Jr.

Ensign Phyllis Scungio, U. S. Navy Nurse, Meets President's Son In Dentist's Office

Ensign Phyllis Scungio of this city, a U. S. navy nurse, received a thrill of a life-time, and in all places—a dentist's office in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Ensign Scungio patiently waited for her appointment in the dentist's office last week-end, and upon arrival of her turn was casually introduced to the person getting out of the dentist's chair.

That is, the introduction would have been a casual one, but the departing patient turned out to be Lieut. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., of the U. S. navy, and son of the president of the United States.

Ensign Scungio is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Scungio of 320 East Lutton street. She enlisted for service in the U. S. navy on October 1, 1943, and spent six months of service at Great Lakes naval training station in Chicago, Ill.

DECISIVE DAYS call for DECISIVE DOLLARS

There are no two ways about it: we have reached the most intensive period of our military effort, so our financial effort must increase proportionately. The need is greater than ever before because while our boys redouble their efforts at their battle stations, we at home can match their sacrifice only by buying double the "extra" bonds we bought in the last war loan.

Weight Of Loaf Limited By OPA

Bakers may increase the weight of a loaf of bread or a sales unit of rolls not more than 25 per cent over the weight as of March, 1942, according to announcement from the Price Panel Board.

Neither weight nor price may be increased unless the baker has filed his ceiling prices with the district office, the board said. If he wishes to increase the weight or price of a loaf or sales unit of rolls, he must also file the proposed weight and price.

Every producer must report prices and weight of each item for the base period each April and October, whether there has been any increase in the weight or prices of his items or not.

The Price Panel Board is also conducting a survey of prices of used consumer durable goods which will probably be finished about June 5, along with the grocery survey.
